Lights camera action!!!

The performing arts in education provides students with the opportunity to engage the mind, body and emotions into a collaborative expression of all that it means to be human. They discover their own voice, grow in confidence and develop empathy.

Last week it was performance week, with our nightly recitals for the inaugural MADD showcase. It was wonderful to see all the smiling faces from students, staff and community members, as every child had the opportunity to demonstrate their music, art, drama and dance skills to the audience.

The children were very enthusiastic as they saw the show finally piece together during the dress rehearsal on Thursday. Thank you to our dedicated staff who all volunteered to assist with this production. Special thanks to the MADD committee for their planning and Mrs Roxanne Harris for her foresight and directorial skills to ensure the sound, lighting and performances were ready for Thursday and Friday night. With enthusiasm and help like this, we knew it was going to be an exciting production.

Thank you also to the P&C for providing catering both nights. I am sure this was a relief, to have dinner organised, for families trying to get prepared and back to school ready for the performance at 6:30.

Musical productions like this are a wonderful way to make new friends and build relationships. It is also a great way to grow in confidence and explore creative talents.

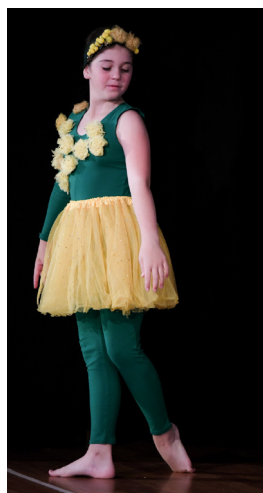

Whether students are backstage, on stage or giving up their time to make props, every person is equally important in the process and a star in the making.

Thank you for the lovely feedback we have received this week about the performances. We look forward to hosting another showcase again in the coming years.

Nemingha's Got Talent!

Nemingha's Got Talent will be happening again this year. All students are invited to enter the talent show competition run by the school leaders and perform on Friday 16 December.

Acts could include singing, dancing, magic tricks, comedy acts, circus stunts or playing a musical instrument. Students may only perform in one item, whether individually or part of a group, and each item has a 2 minute time limit.

Each student entering is required to pay a 50c entry fee and to show their classroom teacher prior to the event.

Entries close Wednesday 14 December. We are looking forward to some entertaining acts. Good luck!

New Resources to support Mathematics lessons are now available for teachers.

A set of numeracy picture book titles with over 150 linked lessons has been purchased to provide teachers with another tool to develop students' mathematical language and thinking skills. Using stories also helps children connect mathematics to the real world, developing all important numeracy skills.

These books have been organised into concepts such as place value; addition; subtraction; multiplication; division; fractions; measurement and geometry; statistics and probability, but most of them include more than one concept, providing an opportunity to discuss the relationships in mathematics.

Our set of books is only a small sample of those available. Many of the stories you read to children at home also provide opportunities to discuss maths, and you can support what they are doing in class by helping your children make these connections.

Top Ten Mathematics Numeracy Library

It was a pleasure to receive our ASCA results last week. Our adjudicator was extremely impressed with our students and this has certainly been reflected in these outstanding results.

Orla Flemming, Max Mann, Pippa McDonald Toby Rowe, Ellieana Kelly, Noah Robinson, Indiyah Lakeman, Dean Miller, Ellen Holcombe, Charlotte McDonald, Indie Straney, Pia Flemming, and Nick Crocker all received a distinction result.

Hannah Coxhead, Tillie Keir, Chloe Myers, Dakota Connors, Emily Crocker and Heidi Hawkins received a high distinction. These amazing results are a credit to the students who worked so hard to put their presentations together. A certificate from the Australian Speech Communication Association will be sent out to the students in the near future.

Congratulations to Hannah Coxhead for receiving the Studio Award. She will be invited to attend an ASCA medal presentation in 2023.

PARKING IN THE BUS BAY

There has been a complaint from a bus company that parents are parking in the bus bay, especially before school. Please be aware that there are very specific rules regarding the "kiss and drop" zone and parking between bus signs at certain times. The fines for not complying with these laws are quite hefty.

Kootingal & District Preschool

Enrolling Now 02 6760 3861

Kootingal & District Preschool is located in a peaceful, rural setting and offers a nurturing environment and quality education for 3-5 year old children. Our Preschool provides two large, calm and inviting indoor learning areas and our unique outdoor grounds are filled with natural gardens and play spaces that inspire curiosity and exploration. Our service has strong connections with our community and offers a variety of educational and cultural programs including music, clay work, science and literacy as well as Aboriginal education. We value higher educator to child ratios and believe in the importance of developing quality relationships with our children and their families. Our Preschool is open between 8:30am and 4:00pm and is currently offering free fees.
